WORK OF DIET KITCHEN RECEIVES HIGH PRAISE

Maintenance of Infants' Welfare Station Noted in Report of Children's Hospital.

Statement Embracing Activities of Institution Where Many Youthful Patients Are Treated.

For its maintenance in connection with the Children's Hospital of the District of Columbia of an infants' welfare station the Washington Diet Kitchen is offered special renewed thanks in the annual report of the hospital for the year ended June 30 last. "The station has done marvelous work during the year," says Dr. Samuel S. Adams, chairman of the medical staff, in the report of that body. "Here daily conferences are held, accurate observations are taken, milk is dispensed to infants and instruction given to mothers under the supervision of a physician, assisted by the nurse in charge of the station. Two hundred and fifty-five infants have received the benefit of this philanthropy during the past year."

Exposition of Activities.

The report, which is submitted to the board of directors of the institution by Admiral Willard H. Brownson, its president, is a handsomely prepared pamphlet and contains a large number of photographic reproductions in sepia, as well as an extremely thorough exposition of the activities of the hospital during the past year. The division dealing with the hospital proper shows a total of 1,256 patients treated, the number of cases under treatment during the year being 125. An interesting feature is the reduction in the proportionate mortality since 1910. In that year 703 patients received treatment, of whom 26 died; during last year out of the 1,256 treated 89 died, only 13 more than reported in 1910. The surgical operations ranged all the way from the treating of an injured finger to the most delicate and difficult pieces of work imaginable, and include such interesting items as the transfusion of blood and the transplantation of tendons.

Number of Children Beneficiaries.

According to the report of the superintendent, Miss Margaret Woodworth, no fewer than 8,034 children have been beneficiaries of the care of the hospital through its various departments both within and without its walls. The social worker maintained by the institution has made 945 visits, and the "follow-up" work on the cases discharged has been of inestimable value in keeping the officials and staff in touch with the condition of all who have received treatment. In the treatment of 1,256 patients, Gen. M. V. Z. Woodhull and Cuno H. Rudolph are vice presidents of the institution; Dr. Samuel S. Adams is its secretary and N. Landon Burchell its treasurer. Mrs. F. B. McGuire is president of the board of lady visitors.

REVIEW SUCCESSES OF SUMMER OUTING CAMPS

1,100 Mothers and Children of District Enjoy Two Weeks in the Beautiful Outdoor Atmosphere.

At the closing meeting of the summer outing committee of the Associated Charities held in the directors' room of the Washington Loan and Trust Company this afternoon the success of the summer's work was reviewed. Contrary to the expectations of those in charge of the camp, Camps Good Will and Pleasant were kept open the full eight weeks and the Baby Hospital Camp was enabled to stay open an additional two weeks longer. More than 1,100 mothers and children enjoyed two weeks or more at these camps during the season. Due to the capacity of the Baby Hospital Camp, the number could not be greatly increased this year, but the average stay was four weeks instead of two weeks as last year. Need was emphasized for running this camp until the latter part of September or the first of October until the warm weather had safely passed. The great increase in organizations being interested in the camps, such as the navy yard committee, the Grotto, the Veterans of the United States Soldiers' Home and the Builders' and Manufacturers' Association, and the help of the Washington newspapers was brought out as some of the many evidences of support of the camps.

Mrs. Edwin Sefton reported the work done by the baby fan committee. The report of the superintendent of Camp Good Will, Miss Lina Willis, was read. Dr. Jesse H. Ramsburgh read the medical report of Camp Good Will and of the excellent work of his corps of associates. Mrs. Simon, superintendent of the Baby Hospital Camp, and Dr. W. J. French, a resident physician, reported for the work of this camp. Dr. J. H. N. Waring reported for Camp Pleasant. Resolutions of thanks were adopted to the master plumbers of the District of Columbia who assisted in installing the plumbing at Camp Good Will and to the four Washington newspapers for their support and assistance in insuring such great success for the camp season. John Joy Edson presided.
